They add splashes of color or tie together all the pieces of furniture and accessories in the space to create a cohesive look. At the same time, they provide privacy for you and your family and help you control the amount of light that enters your home. Changing the window treatments in a room is an easy way to update the look of the room without completely redecorating it. Trade blinds for drapes to add softness to the room, or swap heavy curtains for shades to lighten the space. Top a shade with a printed valance or swing to give the window dimension. Frame windows with curtains in a bold color to add contrast to the room. There are many options for window design, but shopping for window treatments doesn't have to be a daunting task. You just need a basic understanding of the available options and have a plan for the room's design. When you're shopping for window treatments, it helps to know the terms used to classify and describe them. This is also a practical way to familiarize yourself with the available options for your windows so you can make your choices. It starts with the bases and learns the difference between curtains, tonalities, shutters and mantuan. CCO/Mplocar/Pixabay although some people use the terms in an interchangeable way, refer to specific types of window treatments. Blind and shutters are generally made with robust materials such as wood or metal and have slats that open and close. Shades and mantuan are pieces of fabric. The shades rolled up and already above the entire window, but the Mantovans are only decorative pieces in the upper part. Other words that are useful are installation terms. The assembly inside means that the window treatment blocks inside the window envelope. The external mountain refers to a window of the window attached to the wall surrounding the window. The hardware can refer to the brackets and supports that keep the window treatment in position or decorative pieces such as the Finials at the end of the curtain rods. Note the number of windows, their basic shape and how much they have grouped closely. Inspect the window casing. Identify the window hardware. So it's time to measure the Windows's length, width and depth. Take a meter and a steel paper to record notes. Work from left to right and from top to bottom. You should get three measurements for each dimension (left, in the center and right for the width and upper part, the center and the base for the length and depth). This information will help you narrow your research. Unless you are purchasing custom -made treatments, you have to find pieces that actually adapt to your window. You also want to find windows for windows that improve the window. For example, if the window wraps seem a little worn and you don't have time to replace them, you may want to find windows for blinds or shades mounted outside the window or match a shadow with curtains to mask the enclosure. Choose a final consideration of Stylethe when shopping for window treatments isRoom style. What you put on the windows can integrate or contrast with furniture and colors. Traditional rooms feel warm and inviting. In these rooms you can see wooden accents, luxurious furniture and decorative objects such as baskets, plants and hangings that attract your attention. Solid color curtains and wooden shutters work well in these rooms because they do not remove the rest of the furniture. CCO/PIROAD/PIXABAY The modern rooms have clean lines and have a minimalist approach to decoration. The simple shades and curtains bring the slender look throughout the room. Solid color curtains can provide an interesting contrast with the rest of the room and add a touch of softness. At the other end of the decoration spectrum, the cottage style has a casual and welcoming feeling. The shutters add architectural details that contrast beautifully with casual furnishings. The transparent curtains on the windows improve the light and airy atmosphere of the room, especially if you live in an area with many outdoor breezes. More from smarter.com smarter.com
